

Are EV batteries covered by a warranty?

Despite being covered by a warranty, prevention is still better than cure. Battery degradation can be minimised by ensuring vehicles are charged only when they need to be. Continuous charging puts unnecessary strain on batteries and degrades them quicker. Likewise, it's best to avoid letting an EV battery go completely flat.

How long does a battery warranty last?

If your battery has a defect or mechanical issue, if it breaks, or experiences unreasonable wear and tear, that's where your product warranty comes into play. Nowadays, most manufacturers offer at least 10 years of coverage under a product warranty, while some premium options have up to 20 years of protection against product defects.

How long do home batteries last?

Home batteries tend to be pretty robust. No-one has a crystal ball, but the well-made batteries will last at least 10 years. The really high quality ones should last as long as 15 years. Warranty periods generally vary from 5 years to 10 years. However, what the warranty document says about degradation is key.

How long does a Tesla battery warranty last?

Most offer an eight-year/100,000-mile warranty and will either restore or replace batteries if their SoH falls below 70%. For example, Tesla's Model X and Model S vehicles are covered by the company's Battery and Drive Unit Limited Warranty, which uses these terms with additional exclusions and limitations.

What is a solar battery warranty?

Solar battery warranties vary by manufacturer and product. A standard battery warranty should come with at least 10 years of protection, though it can be shorter depending on how often you charge and drain your battery.

Does a battery storage system need a warranty?

A battery storage system is a decades-long investment that a warranty can help protect. The less power your system stores, the more your home may need to draw from the utility company, which eats into your savings. A good warranty ensures that if your battery experiences a problem, that it will be replaced and your investment will be protected.
